

KINGU RAMEN

Website Research, Brand Analysis and Content Blueprint

Prepared for	TECHAF Sdn Bhd
Research date	10 September 2026
Purpose	Website planning and content development
Primary brand	Kingu Ramen by Kingu Kongu

“No ramen no life!”

Core finding: Kingu Ramen is a compact, halal ramen concept developed by the established Kingu Kongu brand. Its strongest website opportunity is to turn a small physical outlet into a highly memorable digital experience: bold ramen imagery, an easy-to-scan menu, clear halal positioning, and direct directions/contact actions.

Research note

Public information was checked against the official Instagram profile, Google business listing, The Campus Ampang directory, and recent public coverage. Menu prices are transcribed from the business-provided Google menu and should be reconfirmed with the owner before launch.

1 Executive Summary

- Concept: A new halal ramen experience by Kingu Kongu, focused on approachable Japanese comfort food.
- Location: Lot G-07, Ground Floor, The Campus Ampang, Ampang, Selangor.
- Price position: Ramen RM25-RM30; Google reports an average spend of RM20-RM40 per person.
- Reputation: Google displayed a 4.7 rating from 86 reviews at the time of research.
- Key strengths: parent-brand credibility, Muslim-friendly proposition, focused menu, playful brand name, strong food photography potential.
- Primary website job: answer “what should I order, how much is it, is it halal, where is it, and how do I get there?” within seconds.

Menu structure insight

The seven ramen choices cover premium, citrus, classic soy, seafood, creamy chicken and mala spice profiles. This supports an effective “Choose Your Bowl” website section based on flavour preference: rich, refreshing, classic, seafood or spicy. Yummy Truffle Ramen is the strongest hero candidate because recent public coverage describes it as a bestseller with shiitake mushroom, black truffle, duck, Japanese fish cake and onsen tamago.

4 Brand and Market Analysis

Positioning statement

Kingu Ramen is a lively halal ramen spot for Malaysian diners who want Japanese comfort food with bold, familiar and playful flavours, backed by the trusted Kingu Kongu name.

Audience

Segment	What they need from the website
Muslim diners	Clear halal status, ingredients reassurance and complete menu
Young adults and couples	Photogenic bowls, cosy atmosphere, pricing and social proof
Families	Kids menu visibility, seating, directions and practical information
Kingu Kongu customers	Connection to the parent brand and a reason to try the new concept
The Campus visitors	Fast discovery, opening hours, unit location and directions

Strengths

- Built-in credibility and audience from Kingu Kongu.
- Distinctive name that blends the Kingu brand universe with Japanese cues.
- Focused 22-item menu that is easy to understand and operationally clear.
- Accessible ramen pricing, with mains clustered between RM25 and RM30.
- Multiple dietary and mood entry points: chicken, beef, seafood, citrus, truffle and mala.

Gaps and Risks

- The Instagram profile was still small at research time, so the website must borrow trust from Kingu Kongu without losing its own identity.
- Google displayed no official website, creating a discoverability and conversion gap.
- Operating hours were not consistently available in the sources reviewed; confirm directly before publishing.
- Use exact halal certification wording supplied by management. “Halal,” “halal-certified,” and “Muslim-owned” are not interchangeable claims.
- Menu descriptions are incomplete in the public business menu; confirm ingredients, allergens and spice levels.

Recommended Personality

Warm, cheeky, energetic, confident and comforting. Avoid a formal fine-dining voice. The “Kong-panions” community language can be retained selectively, while the website navigation and ordering information should remain plain and direct.

Find Your Kingu Bowl

Truffle-rich, yuzu-bright, shoyu-classic or mala-hot. Pick the flavour that matches your mood and make it yours with a side of gyoza or crispy fried chicken.

Visual Direction

- Palette: lacquer red, charcoal black, warm cream and restrained gold.
- Typography: bold condensed display type paired with a highly readable modern sans serif.
- Photography: close-up broth texture, noodle lifts, steam, torched toppings and warm interior lighting.
- Motion: subtle steam, broth ripples and vertical noodle movement; keep menus still and readable.
- Avoid generic anime, excessive sakura motifs and visual clutter that could make the brand feel themed rather than premium.
